

acid rain (in atmospheric chemistry)

Rain with pH values < about 5; commonly results from acids formed from pollutants. 'Pure' rain water equilibrated with atmospheric CO₂ and naturally occurring acids in relatively clean air usually has a pH > 5.

1990, 62, 2170