

anionic polymer

Polymer composed of negatively charged macromolecules and an equivalent amount of counter-cations.

Notes:

- 1) If a substantial fraction of constitutional units carries negative charges, then an anionic polymer is a polyelectrolyte.
- 2) The term anionic polymer should not be used to denote a polymer prepared by anionic polymerization.

2006, 78, 2069