

catalymetric titration

A titration process, which involves a catalyst, where the end-point is detected by the sudden increase or decrease of the rate of a reaction.

1993, 65, 2293