

chain-propagating reaction

A chain-propagating reaction, or more simply a propagating reaction, is an elementary step in a chain reaction in which one chain carrier is converted into another. The conversion can be a unimolecular reaction or a bimolecular reaction with a reactant molecule.

1996, 68, 157