

cotectic

The conditions of pressure, temperature and composition under which two or more solid phases crystallize at the same time from a single liquid over a finite range of decreasing temperature.

1994, 66, 580