

critical energy (threshold energy)

A chemical reaction cannot occur, except by quantum-mechanical tunneling, unless the total energy available is greater than a certain energy, which is known as the critical energy, or the threshold energy.

1996, 68, 162