

dynamic field(s) mass spectrometer

A mass spectrometer in which the separation of a selected ion beam depends essentially on the use of fields, or a field, varying with time. These fields are generally electric.

1991, 63, 1545; O.B. 202