

fringed-micelle model (in polymer crystals)

A model of crystallinity in which the crystallized segments of a macromolecule belong predominantly to different crystals.

P.B. 84