

helix residue (in a polymer)

The smallest set of one or more successive configurational base units that generates the whole chain through helical symmetry.

P.B. 79