

mass-flow sensitive detector (in chromatography)

A device the response of which is proportional to the amount of sample component reaching the detector in unit time.

1993, 65, 849