

Mohr amplification process (in analysis)

The process in which iodide is oxidized to iodate to achieve a more favourable measurement.

1982, 54, 2555