

non-linearity error (in spectrochemical analysis)

An error caused by any deviation from linearity of the response of the detector to the measured radiant power.

1988, 60, 1456