

non-ideal, linear chromatography

Chromatographic process, where the retention is governed by a linear distribution isotherm and normal peak-broadening takes place.

Note: This case is commonly assumed in analytical chromatography.
1996, 68, 1594