

polarization error (in spectrochemical analysis)

An error which arises from the fact that the absorbance of a sample (especially a solid) could depend on the polarization of the incident radiation and from the polarization dependent response of the photodetector.

1988, 60, 1456