

puffing inhibitor

Metals or metal compounds with a high chemical affinity for the heteroatoms in the carbons. They are distributed as fine particles within the carbon materials to be graphitized.

Notes:

Iron and iron compounds are most frequently used as puffing inhibitors when puffing is related to sulfur.

1995, 67, 502