

sink (in atmospheric chemistry)

The receptor for material which is removed from the atmosphere. Because of long range transport of many pollutants such as SO₂, sulfuric acid and its salts, the sink region can be many hundreds of kilometres from the source region of the pollutants.

1990, 62, 2213