

superradiance

Spontaneous emission amplified by a single pass through a population inverted medium. It is distinguished from true laser action by its lack of coherence. The term superradiance is frequently used in laser technology.

See coherent radiation.

1996, 68, 2279